What is Web 2.0?

Web 2.0 is the term given to describe a second generation of the World Wide Web that is focused on the ability for people to collaborate and share information online. Web 2.0 basically refers to the transition from static HTML Web pages to a more dynamic Web that is more organized and is based on serving web applications to users. Other improved functionality of Web 2.0 includes open communication with an emphasis on web-based communities of users, and more open sharing of information. Over time Web 2.0 has been used more as a marketing term than a computer-science-based term. Blogs, wikis, and web services are all seen as components of Web 2.0.

What is BYOD?

- BYOD (BRING YOUR OWN DEVICE) is a phrase that has become widely adopted to refer to students who bring their own computing devices – such as smartphones, laptops, and PDAs – to the school for use and connectivity on the school network.

- BYOD Contracts? Does your school system or institution have a BYOD policy?
Live Streaming and Backchanneling

Ustream

- Broadcast video live around the world. Videos can be viewed on smartphones, iPads, iPhones, Tablets, etc…
- Students can post comments and videos

What is the Backchannel?

The backchannel is everything going on in the room that isn’t coming from the presenter.

The backchannel is where people ask each other questions, pass notes, get distracted, and give you the most immediate feedback you’ll ever get.

Instead of ignoring the backchannel, TodaysMeet helps you leverage its power.

Tapping into the backchannel lets you tailor and direct your presentation to the audience in front of you, and uniting the backchannel means the audience can share insights, questions and answers like never before.
Talk. Listen.

Today'sMeet helps you embrace the backchannel and connect with your audience in realtime.

Encourage the room to use the live stream to make comments, ask questions, and use that feedback to tailor your presentation, sharpen your points, and address audience needs.

Remind101

✨ This is a free service for teachers. Teachers can set up a maximum of 10 classes. Students (and parents) self-enroll into the class online. Texts can be sent to the entire class. Students will not have access to your personal cellphone number.
Remind101

“I think that Remind101 is very useful for college students. On more than one occasion, this program has helped remind me of an assignment/test that I had completely forgot about. I believe that only positive things would result from more widespread usage of Remind101 on college and high school campuses.”
